

Recruiting Staff and HR Principles Workshop

1 Day Workshop

The first thing to get right in retail is your people?

Consider this....

- How effective has your recruiting been?
- How well do you train your staff?
- Do you assess your staff's performance?

One of the most significant investments any business makes is into the team that drives the success of the organisation. How often have you struggled to find the right team to support the needs of the business and fit with the culture of your organisation? The ARA Recruiting the Right Staff and HR Principles gives clarity and focus to anyone responsible for recruiting and managing the teams in retail businesses. Create your own success through excellent principles learned in recruiting the right team.

After completing this course participants will have learnt:

- Human Resource Planning
- How to develop training plans
- Personnel Planning
- Designing job specifications
- Recruiting Staff
- Assessing and selecting staff

Consider tailoring your course

If your organisation will benefit from an in-house program on recruiting the right staff and HR principles, discuss the endless opportunities with a training consultant from the ARA and take advantage of the discounted packages available.
